CIO Review Selects Shareable Ink as One of the 20 Most Promising Healthcare Tech Solution Providers

Annual list recognizes the company's commitment to improving EHR usability

Nashville, TN – November 3, 2014 – Shareable Ink, an enterprise cloud-based platform that simplifies clinical documentation at the point-of-care, has been named one of the 20 Most Promising Healthcare Tech Solutions Providers by CIO Review. The positioning is based on evaluation of Shareable Ink's innovative approach to simplifying clinical documentation in healthcare with a portfolio of anesthesia, hospital, surgery center, and physician practice clients. The annual list of companies is selected by a panel of experts and members of CIO Review's editorial board to recognize and promote technology entrepreneurship.

"Shareable Ink has been on our radar for some time for stirring a revolution in the healthcare space, and we are happy to showcase them this year due to their continuing excellence in delivering top-notch technology-driven solutions," said Harvi Sachar, Publisher and Founder, CIO Review. "Shareable Ink's solutions continued to break new ground within the past year benefiting its physician practice, ASC, hospitals and anesthesia group customers, and we're excited to have them featured on our top companies list."

In recent months, Shareable Ink has announced partnerships with Surgical Notes, an ambulatory surgery center market leader, and a preferred partnership agreement with Allscripts, for its Allscripts Sunrise business unit, to provide anesthesia and simplified clinical documentation solutions designed to maximize productivity, boost financial performance and measurably improve the quality of patient care.

"Shareable Ink is honored to be recognized by CIO Review's panel of experts and thought leaders," said Laurie McGraw, President and CEO, Shareable Ink. "Our organization is completely focused on amplifying what works in healthcare by designing clinical documentation solutions that match the way physicians interact with their patients."
